MAKE ME A MONSTER

IF you human beings can keep a diary, I guess I can too! What's that you say? If I'm not a human being, what am I? Why, I'm a monster, of course! Naturally that brings up the question, where did I come from? Well, chum, I didn't come from anywhere . . . I was here all the time! Not in my present form, I must admit. Nope, I was around all right, but not all in one piece. My head was in this cemetery, and my arms in that cemetery, and my legs and torso in still another graveyard. Yep, that was me all over!

Well, anyway, this creep . . . he was a scientist and crazy as a bed bug . . . came around on several different nights with a helper who was as batty as he was . . . and dug up the graves in which the different parts of me were buried. Then he got all the different sections of a human body together in his laboratory in an old house on top of a hill. He sewed the different parts together, clamped metal bands on my patched up arms, pulled a lever and millions of volts of electricity ran through my body! Seconds later, I was a living, breathing creature, but certainly not the prettiest thing around! So the professor called me a monster and I guess that's what I am.

Well, as I started to say, I decided one day to keep a diary, just like I saw the professor do in the laboratory. I lived in the lab, never leaving the room, not even to see what the rest of the old house looked like. I did my sleeping on the same operating table on which I was born, if you want to call it that. Anyway, the professor used to keep a record each day of the things he taught me. The prof called his record book a diary on my progress, and so I decided I would start to keep a diary too, about what happened to me each day, especially the new things I became aware of, the new things I learned, the new things I was able to do on my own.

And so the entries went something like this: June 10th. Today I am a month old. I am big and strong for a creature who has been alive and breathing for only thirty days, but the professor says I am an unusual specimen . . . the first one he ever created successfully. That means there had been other monsters before me, but somehow the prof had not been able to shock them into life . . . I was the first one.

June 12th. (You see, I skipped a day or more sometimes, if I had nothing interesting to write in my diary.) I began to wonder why the professor created me in the first place. I asked the prof about this. I guess I should have kept my big, patched up mouth shut, because the prof got mighty sore about my curiosity and slammed me across the head with a stick! I learned my lesson today for sure! Don't ask the prof questions! Let him tell me what he wants me to know.

June 15th. The prof seemed to be in a cheerful mood today. He said I was progressing nicely. I have learned to do simple tasks around the lab, such as washing bottles and scrubbing the floors. And I am able to understand almost everything he says to me . . . not, of course, those big scientific words he uses sometimes, but the simple things. And I can answer certain questions when he asks me . . . I can add simple figures, and I can answer the questions he asks me about history subjects which he teaches me for an hour every morning. Yes, I'm getting real smart, the prof says, and he's proud of me.

June 20th. This morning I began to notice that I was getting weaker by the hour. My limbs didn't seem to work as they used to . . . and my brain didn't absorb what the professor was trying to cram into my mind. I stood in front of the prof with my eyes staring and my mouth speechless. At last the prof took my pulse and felt the pulse barely throbbing. Something was wrong, that's for sure! And then the prof realized what was happening. The first high voltage shock he had given me on the day I was created was wearing out! Only one thing to do, so he strapped me to the operating table again, applied the metal clamps and threw a million-volt shock into me for the second time. It was what I needed all right, because I snapped out of my lethargy in a minute! I was my old normal monster self again!

June 22nd. The lessons are continuing, and the prof says I am smarter now after the second electric shock than I was before. I was getting real smart all right, because I was now able to read books by myself, and the prof didn't have to teach me any more I was doing my own lessons by myself now. I read every book he put into my hands, and I understood every word. I like reading now, and when I finished the book the prof gave me, I took another one off the shelf when the prof was out of the lab, and I understood everything that book had to say. It was about science and chemistry, and I tell you, chum, that stuff can be difficult even for a normal human being to understand. But I understood every bit of it. Oh, I was getting real smart all right!

June 25th. The prof and his helper had a habit of locking the door of the lab when they left the room. But this morning, the prof left to go into town and his helper went home to visit his folks and the guy forgot to lock the door. So, being left alone, I walked to the door and walked out of the lab. I walked along a corridor and came to another door. I opened that door and walked outside into the back yard. What a revelation! Trees, birds flying overhead, soft earth to walk on. Now this world was more like it! Somewhere in the deep recesses of the brain which had once belonged to a living human being, came a remembrance of a former life, when my brain's original owner had lived among normal human beings and enjoyed the fresh air and green grass and leafy trees. This was much better than a cold lab with nothing but tubes and bubbling mixtures for company! I returned to the lab, with my mind made up that I would talk to the prof and ask for freedom to move around outside the house as often as I pleased.

June 26th. Me and my big mouth! Yep, I was getting smarter all right, but the thing I hadn't learned yet was to keep my big mouth shut! When I told the prof about my walk outside yesterday, he got real mad! He grabbed that big stick of his and pounded me on the head. "You will never leave this laboratory, do you understand? I created you here, and I will destroy you here!" Then he made me scrub the floors for the second time that day. Like I said, I was getting real smart and could figure things out pretty good now. The prof intended to use me as a slave, that's all! He knew he had done something criminal in digging up graves, just to create a dumb monster who would obey every command he uttered. But here's one monster who isn't so dumb, chum! Tonight, I'll make plans!

June 27th. This is the last entry I will ever make in my diary. I did a lot of thinking last night after the prof and his helper left. I came to the conclusion that I wouldn't like to be a dumb monster slave just so long as the prof chose to keep me alive. After all, he could destroy me whenever he wished to . . . he had all kinds of chemicals in the lab that would do the trick. So I thought it all over, and decided there was but one thing left for me to do . . . become master of the old house and the yard and all the nice green things myself! I had learned a lot by reading the prof's books, and I knew what I had to do. I would create a monster just as the prof had done! And the monster would obey me! So already I've started to make my monster.

I disposed of that pesky prof one . . . two . . . and his helper three . . . four! Four whacks, and I had me a head plus arms and legs for my very own monster! Now all I need is a torso to sew the head and the limbs to. Then a job with the high voltage thing. Maybe tonight, I'll pay a visit to the graveyard, one of those places where part of me came from. There must be a nice, fresh corpse laying around somewhere . . . if the prof could find some, I guess I can too! Didn't I say I was getting real smart from all that book reading? Guess the old prof was too good a teacher! So I must close my diary now. I gotta finish this job of making me a monster for my very own!

A New Hobby Gives You A Brand New Interest!

Yes, anyone from 5 to 80 can draw or sketch or paint anything now the very first time you use the "Magic Art Reproducer" like a professional artist—no matter how "hopeless" you think you are! An unlimited variety and amount of drawings can be made. Art is admired and respected by everyone. Most hobbies are expensive, but drawing costs very little, just some inexpensive paper, pencils, crayons, or paint. No costly upkeep, nothing to wear out, no parts to replace. It automatically reproduces anything you want to draw on any sheet of paper. Then easily and quickly follow the lines of the "picture image" with your pencil . . . and you have an accurate original drawing that anyone would think an artist had done. No guesswork, no judging sizes and shapes! Reproduces black and white and actual colors for paintings.

Also makes drawing larger or smaller as you wish.

Anyone can use it on any desk, table, board, etc.—indoors or outdoors! Light and compact to be taken wherever you wish. No other lessons or practice or talent needed! You'll be proud to frame your original drawings for a more distinctive touch to your home. Give them to friends as gifts that are 'different' appreciated.

Have fun! Be popular! Everyone will ask you to draw them. You'll be in demand! After a short time, you may find you can draw well without the "Magic Art Reproducer" because you have developed a "knack" and feeling artists have—which may lead to a good paying art career.

ALSO EXCELLENT FOR EVERY OTHER TYPE OF DRAWING AND HOBBY!

Create Your Own Designs for All Hobbies! Reproduces anything
Copy all cartoons, comics.
Outdoor Scenes, landscapes, buildings
Copy photos, portraits of family, friends, etc.
Still life, vases, bowls of fruit, lamps furniture, all objects.
